

POLLOKSHIELDS
BURGH HALL

LOVE STORIES

Every couple has their own interpretation of the perfect wedding day. Some wish for a traditional yet memorable affair whilst others want something completely bespoke and, well, just maybe a wee bit off-the-wall!

Nestled in the grounds of Maxwell Park on the southside of Glasgow, is Pollokshields Burgh Hall, a stunning venue from which to host your dream day. Designed in the late 19th century by renowned architect Henry Edward Clifford the Halls' beautiful renaissance-style exterior and traditional interior gives a touch of age-old elegance to even the most contemporary of weddings.

Our stunning Maxwell Hall with original Victorian stained glass and wood paneling can accommodate up to 140 guests for a meal or, if you would prefer something more intimate, the equally impressive Stirling Hall can seat up to 40 people for a sit-down meal. Downstairs we have the Clifford Hall, a light airy space perfect for more contemporary wedding ceremonies and the Loggia offering access to a private garden area within Maxwell Park, lovely for a drinks reception on a sunny afternoon.

Pollokshields Burgh Hall is the perfect blank canvas for couples wishing to create a day which truly represents them. Whether you wish a formal three course wedding breakfast, or a less informal Italian-themed buffet, or a hog roast in our private grounds, we can help with finding the ideal caterer and bar service. We even allow you to bring in your own wine and champagne for the post ceremony drinks and to enjoy with your meal.

Our décor, whilst classic, is neutral throughout making it the perfect backdrop for all your finishing touches, whether your style errs towards vintage and rustic or something more elaborate with stunning floral displays, masses of fairy lights and lots of sparkle.
